

Welcome

Welcome to second issue of the ROADMAP newsletter!

This second newsletter provides you with up to date information on the project's latest progress. The Consortium is busier than ever: ROADMAP partners presented and discussed innovation, value and challenges for health technology assessment (HTA) at the HTAi conference in Rome; the ethics team presented a first poster (at the Neuroethics Network) in Paris, the identification team submitted its first key deliverable to IMI and we all met for the third time in Barcelona to jointly discuss progress and plans for the future.

You also have the opportunity to hear from our colleague Antje Hottgenroth, who provides us with the industry perspective on the work with real world data. Last but not least, I am very delighted to announce that our Consortium has grown even bigger and to welcome the "Leiden University" as a new full partner.

Enjoy!
